

Software Developer

Pella, Iowa

Position Type

Full-Time

Description

We're working with Lean Technologies (<http://www.leanotech.com>), an established, Iowa-based company, to identify the top software development talent coming out of Iowa colleges for a currently open position.

Lean Technologies flagship software is Thrive, a manufacturing management tool to help department managers apply lean manufacturing techniques to their own manufacturing processes. Thrive has evolved into a full-featured package that spans the manufacturing plant – from the shop floor to the corporate offices.

The Software Developer role is full-time, salaried position and based out of their corporate office in Pella, IA. Strawtown Works in Pella, IA. The primary focus will be on writing custom code and new product development for the Thrive platform.

Perks:

- The successful candidate will work directly with the CEO to learn and develop the system.
- Work with a team that has 20 years in operations and code writing
- As a small & agile business, we wear multiple hats to serve our customers. While you'll focus on software development, you'll get a chance to get your hands dirty in other aspects of the business.
- Serve large corporations while getting the energy of working in a small company environment.
- An office in one of the most unique, and historic workspaces in Pella.

Benefits include but are not limited to:

- Competitive pay with incentives for company success.
- Health insurance stipend
- Two weeks of paid vacation the first year
- Training classes and personal development options

Qualifications:

Please apply for this position if:

1) You love to write code. You are interested in a coding career that allows you to make an impact early in your career, and the prospect of being on the frontlines of growth excites you. The Thrive platform is mainly written in .Net and the database is SQL; experience with these is preferred but not required as long as you are willing to dig in and learn on the job.

2) You are a problem solver. You are excited by tackling a complex problem to develop a simple solution. You are willing to dig in, learn new things, and deliver what the customer needs.

3) You are energized by team-based projects. Sure, we all work heads down from time to time, but our best work comes from working as a team, and we do it daily.

4) You are willing and able to work in Pella, IA. We have a great team, an amazing work environment, and a fantastic community. We want you to immerse yourself in it to get the full benefit of the opportunity, so we are only looking for candidates willing to take that step.
